Son, in-law to go

Rep. Joey Salceda, one of Ms Arroyo's economic adviser, said the President was still waiting for her lawyers to lay the legal groundwork on how to go about the forced resignation of her son and brother-in-law from Congress.

"They're my friends, but I think they have to go. We need to put some finality to this issue. Let's give in to the people. Since she already admitted to her mistake, then she has to accept the penalty. There has to be penance and penance requires admission, repentance, restitution."

Ms Arroyo blamed her political enemies for deriding her husband, even on his contributions to his pet projects such as health care and sports development, in order to "distract" her from implementing her reform agenda.

"And so he will leave to remove these distractions and doubts from our people's minds," she said. "As with Caesar's wife, my husband has volunteered to remove himself from any situation which will cast doubt on my presidency."

"My family will miss him terribly, and I ask you to help pray that we remain strong as a family," Ms Arroyo told the country's top business leaders gathered at a forum at the Manila Polo Club in Makati City.

A few hours after the President disclosed her husband's plan to go abroad, the First Gentleman said his decision to leave was "very painful."

"I love my wife very much," he said, as he admitted difficulty in seeing the Chief Executive suffer through the negative press he had been receiving.

"If there is anything I can do, any sacrifice I can make, to give her peace of mind, I would never hesitate to do it. That is why I have offered to leave. Being away from my wife and my family is a very painful decision."

The President said she mentioned her husband's plan to go away "because I want to signal to everyone that nothing can stop my administration from implementing phase two of our reform agenda."

It was the second time in as many days that the President made a major announcement concerning herself and her family as her scandal-riddled administration struggles to get back to its feet.

On Monday night, Ms Arroyo confessed to the nation that she was the one talking to an election official in a wiretapped phone conversation suggesting fraud in the 2004 polls.

She apologized for that "lapse in judgment" and expressed her desire to move on with the business of governing.

The so-called "Gloria-gate" scandal had spawned protest rallies and calls for her to step down both before and after Ms Arroyo made the apology.

Iggy won't leave

In Bacolod City, Iggy Arroyo does not agree with the decision of his elder brother to leave the country. He said he had no plans of doing the same.

"Politics should not break a family apart. It is a painful sacrifice for a husband, father and grandfather to be separated from his family. No greater love can a man [have] for his wife," he said.

He said he did not know where his brother would go to because he had not talked to him yet. But he said Mike might go to the United States because his brother has always been comfortable there.

The congressman denied reports that the President had asked him to resign in the wake of allegations that he received jueteng payola and of the investigation conducted by the Bureau of Internal Revenue on his tax payments.

Calling the reports "outrageous" and "laughable," he said he would not resign from the House of Representatives because he owed it to his constituents in Negros Occidental's fifth district to stay on and serve them.

"I will not resign or go on leave. I cannot abandon my oath," he told the INQUIRER.

At the First Philippine Business Leaders' Forum, the President sought the support of the business community in her bid to reform the country.

Political noise

She said that she was aware of the concern of the business community on the work achieved by her government being "overshadowed by the political noise, including rumor and innuendo associated with members of my family."

"This has been a subject of considerable pain for me and for members of my family who've been subjected to these charges," she said. "To say that this goes with the territory in politics is easy, but it doesn't stop people from being distracted from the real work required if we are to build a better nation."

Priority is God

In her speech, Ms Arroyo quoted again the advice given to her by her father, the late President Diosdado Macapagal, on being a public servant, which she said she had stated in a recent Time magazine interview.

"When you're a public servant, the priority is God first, then country, and family is last," she said.

"My responsibility to the people is my highest priority," she said.

The President said her family knew that they should be "self-effacing" because the presidency was a "position of greatest responsibility necessitating personal sacrifice and not a fount of privilege or special favors."

She said that when she came into power in 2001, her first administrative order was to prohibit government agencies from dealing with her family on matters of appointments, contacts and supplies. With a report from Carla P. Gomez, PDI Visayas Bureau

Physical therapists are not alone in their quest for a more effective way to communicate with their patients. The American Speech-Language-Hearing Association (ASHA) has been working to improve the quality of communication for its members for many years. In 1998, ASHA published the first edition of the ASHA Practice Guidelines for the Assessment and Management of Communication Disorders in Children. This document was a landmark in the field of communication disorders, as it provided a framework for the assessment and management of communication disorders in children. The guidelines were developed by a panel of experts in the field, and they have been widely adopted by speech-language pathologists and other professionals who work with children with communication disorders. Cockatoos call from the wild

By John Doe

Think cockatoos are just noisy parrots? Think again. These intelligent birds are capable of a wide range of behaviors, from mimicking human speech to solving complex puzzles. In a new study, researchers have found that cockatoos are capable of understanding the concept of "zero" and can even perform simple arithmetic.

COCKATOOS
 Cockatoos are highly intelligent birds that can mimic human speech and solve complex puzzles. In a new study, researchers have found that cockatoos are capable of understanding the concept of "zero" and can even perform simple arithmetic.

The study, conducted by a team of researchers from the University of Cambridge, involved training cockatoos to perform a series of tasks. The birds were presented with a set of objects and were required to select the correct one based on a specific rule. The researchers found that the cockatoos were able to learn the rules and perform the tasks with a high degree of accuracy.

The findings suggest that cockatoos are capable of more complex cognitive abilities than previously thought. This has important implications for our understanding of bird intelligence and the evolution of the brain. The researchers plan to continue their work, exploring the cognitive abilities of other bird species.

Angry Susan calls on GMA to resign

By [Name] | [Location]

MANILA (PDI) — Susan, the 31-year-old daughter of a prominent businessman, has called for the resignation of the GMA network after a controversial broadcast of a video showing her in a compromising position with a man.

The video, which was shown on GMA's "Magandang Umaga" program, depicted Susan in a hotel room with a man who is not her husband. The broadcast sparked a nationwide scandal and led to Susan's public apology.

Susan, who is married to a well-known businessman, has been the center of intense media scrutiny since the incident. She has since been seen in public, but her private life remains a topic of speculation.

The GMA network has defended the broadcast, claiming it was a legitimate news report. However, Susan's supporters argue that the network's actions were a violation of her privacy and that the broadcast was intended to sensationalize the story.

Susan's call for GMA to resign is part of a larger movement to hold media outlets accountable for their actions. She has received support from many Filipinos who are concerned about the impact of sensationalist news on society.

By [Name] | [Location]

MANILA (PDI) — Susan's call for GMA to resign has sparked a heated debate about the role of media in society. Some argue that the network's actions were justified, while others believe that Susan's call is a fair demand for accountability.

The incident has also led to a re-evaluation of the standards for news reporting. Many are calling for stricter regulations to prevent such incidents from happening again.

Susan's story has become a national talking point, with people discussing the ethics of media and the importance of privacy. Her call for GMA to resign is seen as a bold move to demand transparency and accountability from the media.

She's too beautiful to be sent to jail

By [Name] | [Location]

MANILA (PDI) — Susan's beauty has become a topic of discussion in the wake of the scandal. Many people are questioning why someone so beautiful would be involved in such a situation.

Some are suggesting that Susan's beauty is a double-edged sword, as it has made her a target of media attention and speculation. Others believe that her beauty is a result of her family's wealth and influence.

The incident has also led to a discussion about the role of beauty in society. Many are questioning why people are so obsessed with appearance and how this obsession can lead to such scandals.

Susan's story is a reminder that beauty is not everything. It is important to focus on character and values, rather than just physical appearance.

Peso crashes after Susan rejects Gloria's apology

By [Name] | [Location]

MANILA (PDI) — The Philippine peso has experienced a sharp decline in value following Susan's rejection of Gloria's apology. The peso has lost more than 10 percent of its value in the past few days.

The decline is attributed to a loss of confidence in the Philippine government and its economic policies. Many investors are withdrawing their funds from the country, leading to a sharp drop in the peso's value.

The incident has also led to a discussion about the role of the government in the economy. Many are questioning why the government is not doing more to stabilize the peso and protect the country's financial interests.

Susan's rejection of Gloria's apology is seen as a symbol of the government's failure to address the people's concerns. It has led to a loss of faith in the government and its ability to manage the country's affairs.

OPERATING AT A LOSS

Makati Med needs P30

By Charles S. Hastings

MAJUM Medical Center Inc. is in urgent need of $100 million in fresh capital to avert its financial hemorrhage, the company's top official said.

But Galeno Mendota, Makana's president and chief executive officer, said he would like to raise between P300 and P500 million in new money to pay off debts, buy new equipment for systems improvement and, if possible, do some refurbishing to attract more patients.

"Banks said we need at least $100 million," Medalia said in an interview. "If we can raise a sufficient amount of new capital, then maybe we can bootstrap again eventually."

Idatleni Ideni is restructuring FI 2 billion in bank loans with an average maturity of six years. Metalbank said the financial reform would extend on the maturity to at least 10 years.

The hospital is suffering from liquidity problems, according to its president.

Banks normally required borrowers to maintain a one-to-one ratio of coffers to loans to ensure liabilities. But for every peso of Mahan Med's assets, it has P4 in liabilities.

As part of the overall corporate restructuring, the sibling hospital elected a new set of board of directors.

Philippine Long Distance Telephone Co. chair Manuel Pangalanan and former Philippine National Bank chief Francisco Diño, were elected as independent directors.

The other new members of the 11-member board are Mercedes, Judy Aramburo-Ramos and Cristina Antonio M.D. The remaining six members are incumbents.

The new board would meet on July 5 to elect the hospital's new officers. Medicap said the voters approved by law methods of financing chief executive Makau, Masu vaccinated 9300 million to leave in the use three years due to a binary security system. It discovered the losses only in December 2004. Before that, the hospital thought it was still healthy.

As the problems unfolded, the hospital soon discovered it had 500 employees. It could do nothing. Management had left 300 in Italy and paid them $150 million in benefits. Hospitals and they were stubborn whether to allow me further

At the same time, the hospital could save about $100 million a year with the 2001-02 year.

Asked if the hospital was threatened, the press secretary said, "If I saw there was any management, it would sound as if it was the only answer. But it's not."

True: there were "lapras," Mendoza said. "Some people identified with the lapras are already gone."

Increased competition, Mendosta said, also brought down Markets Med's occupancy rate to 60 percent from about 80 percent three years ago. New medical centers, like the Asian Hospital, have been aggressive in recruiting

Other ones, like the Medical City and St. Luke's Hospital, have had a facelift. But Marian Med, because of mounting financial troubles, was unable to keep up.

Pagliaro is one of several that the hospital owners were negotiating with to infuse new capital. Mendoza said.

The $100 million in new money must come in "very soon," according to Mistakala. The first cut is expected between now and June 2006.

Makani Mesi was founded in the 1960s by Dr. Constantine P. Makanihadi, Dr. June Y. Pafes, Dr. Marinos M. Alimurung, Dr. Charles I. Sevillano and Mrs. Arabela.

The other six founders are Romeo Gumbao, Manuel Fernandez Sr. Jorge Arana, Raul Potes, John Jarama and Daniel Go.

About one-third of the hospital's shares are controlled by the Flores and Arenas families. About 25 percent are held by the heirs of the other founders like the Murrians and the Alvarados. The rest are owned by more than 100 doctors connected with the hospital.

Individuals in a particular business category are given and provided the same conditions through a tax bill of income, personal services, taxes, and economic. For instance, taxpayers in the business category are given the same amount of money to be used for the same amount of money. In general, only one bill is in the state, something that is in the state, and it is not growing, and the business is not in the state and the business is not in the state.

development. The authors have identified that the most common negative impact of an intervention is a reduction in the number of people who are able to access the service. This is often due to a lack of resources, such as staff, or a lack of information about the service. The authors also note that the most common positive impact of an intervention is an increase in the number of people who are able to access the service. This is often due to a lack of resources, such as staff, or a lack of information about the service.

There is a lot of talk about the importance of the environment, but it is often just a slogan. The environment is not just a place, it is a way of life. It is the air we breathe, the water we drink, and the land we walk on. It is the foundation of our existence, and it is our responsibility to protect it. We must take action now to prevent the destruction of our environment, for the sake of our future generations.
